

You Were Looking for Something Else

You were looking for something else.

Something bigger.
Something clearer.
Something different.

You had an idea.
An expectation.

So you searched.

And missed it.

Because—

it didn't look like that.

It was already there.

You were looking for something else.

